To the Whitehall Community,

I wanted to take a moment to share some news that I hope that everyone enjoys. While the COVID world has taken so much from our students; sports, clubs, and many school events that we all enjoy each year – The Color Run, Harvest Festival, and Homecoming, just to name a few. As such, I want to ensure that our students can have a little bit of normality in this crazy world.

Snow Days have always been some of the most “looked forward to” days of the year for students. The discussions between students and their friends and teachers the day before a big storm, the participating in those old wife’s tales the night before to ensure that a snow day happens and waiting for the phone to ring in the morning with the voice that says “school will be closed today because of inclement weather”. Well, that’s something that we can still give our students.

In the event that a snow day must be called, there will be NO SCHOOL. There will be no in person instruction and no online instruction for the day; we want our students to have some small sense of normalcy in these crazy times. We hope that as we progress through this year and approach the holiday season that each of you remain healthy and safe.

Best,

Patrick Dee
Superintendent of Schools
